AT THE SYMPHONY

GLENDALE LADIES TAKE PART IN CHORUS OF MEMORABLE PRODUCTION

Glendale was interested to quite an extent in the second presentation of Beethoven's Choral Symphony, given by the Symphony orchestra in Clune's auditorium, Los Angeles, on Tuesday evening, under the direction of Adolf Tandler. In the chorus the following Glendale residents were noted: Mrs. C. H. Cunningham, organist of the Baptist church; Mrs. H. E. MacMullen, Miss Clementina Landmann and Mrs. Hancock, First and Broadway.

From Tropico the following parties took part in the chorus: Mrs. Ragland, Miss Cooper and Mrs. Shank.

Most of the music section of the Tuesday Afternoon club attended the dress rehearsal, which was a great success. The Glendale contingent of the chorus says that considerable credit is due to Mr. Paulin, who as assistant director did the preliminary work for the chorus.

Mr. Adolf Tandler put the superb finish on the work of the organization.

The Lyric and Ellis clubs were privileged to take part in the great performance. A combination such as that of these two clubs as chorus under the direction of Adolf Tandler is a thing of marvelous perfection. The "Ode to Joy," which speaks of peace, was timely and significant.

Several interesting presentations were made after the concert. Mr. Tandler was presented with a bouquet of great beauty. Tablets of bronze with Beethoven's bust were given to various performers by Director Tandler. The attendance during the two days, it is estimated, could not have been less than 10,000. It is hoped that the performance will be repeated Sunday afternoon. If it is, the proceeds will be devoted to producing the Symphony under the leadership of Herr Tandler and by the same organization at the San Francisco exposition.

STORY OF CIVILIZATION

The story of civilization, from the dim distant days when the Oriental nations first awakened to begin the march of empires toward the west down to the glowing present in California, will be told in a monster four days' pageant to be held in Los Angeles by the school children of the city and county June 2 to 5.

Plans have been completed by the 1915 general committee for the most comprehensive and magnificent spectacle ever presented in the West. The program as outlined includes:

June 2—"California the Home of Youth," floral and allegorical parade by city school children.

June 3 and 4—"Westward the Star of Empire Takes Its Way," magnificent pageant with 7000 performers, at Stadium, Thirty-fifth and Hooper avenue.

June 5—Morning, allegorical parade by county school children; afternoon, pageant at Stadium; evening, brilliantly beautiful electrical "Feast of Flowers."

Nearly one hundred schools will participate in the opening parade, with flower bedecked floats, gaily costumed knights and ladies and poetic representations of youth and life in the Southland.

The great pageant will unfold the march of empires beginning with the grotesque warriors of Japan and China and continue through the various periods including the Greeks, Romans, Celts, Teutons, Norsemen, Francks, Moors, Pilgrims, Colonials, Indians, pioneers of the West, the Missions, miners and ending with a magnificent tableau depicting California, the triumphal climax of civilization's pilgrimage to its highest development.

The fiesta will be the most elaborate ever attempted and is expected to be the most attractive of the many entertainment features planned for exposition year.

ENTERTAINING COMMITTEES

Mrs. L. W. Sinclair and Mrs. Frank Grosvenor are hostesses this afternoon to the members of the philanthropic and civic committees of the Tuesday Afternoon club at the home of Mrs. Grosvenor at 1421 Burchett street.

PROMINENT MAN HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Weitzel of 1425 Burchett street are entertaining Mrs. Weitzel's grandfather, Mr. Chas. R. Conner, one of the founders of the University of Washington and a man well known in the political and educational worlds. Mr. Conner has been spending the winter in the South.

LOOK OUT FOR GARBAGE

GLENDALE HEALTH OFFICER HAS EYE ON VIOLATORS OF CITY ORDINANCE

Certain parties will appear before Judge Whomes this afternoon at 3 o'clock to answer to a charge of violating the city ordinance regarding garbage. In the course of his inspection of the streets and alleys of the city with special view to the enforcement of the garbage ordinance, Dr. Chase, the health officer, through the police department some days ago, warned parties in the vicinity of Cedar street that their practice of exposing garbage in open wooden boxes in the alleys would not be tolerated. Further, he informed them that persistence in such conduct would land them in court and abject them to the penalty stipulated by law in such cases.

Evidently the ladies in question did not take the warning to heart; or it may be that they thought the police department would never enforce the ordinance; or it may be that they were just naturally too lazy to do anything. Anyway, they kept on piling up their garbage in the alleys in the open wooden boxes until the accumulation became a dangerous possible source of disease.

Under the hot suns of the past few days the passer-by would have had no difficulty in locating the particular alley on Cedar street which we are mercifully refraining from localizing. Ancient mariners of Lake Michigan, who made Chicago their home port, used to say that the unsanitary condition of the lake front and harbor there was so marked that it was impossible to miss the harbor on the darkest or most foggy night in the year. "We just steer," said the old tars, "by the smell." Similar conditions appear to have prevailed in the neighborhood to which reference is now made.

It also appears that the police department warned the parties in question as late as May 12, but without effect. In consequence, Chief Herald will have something to say concerning the case, as will also Dr. Chase and Judge Whomes. When they get through there will be no mistake in the minds of the violators of the ordinance that a city ordinance is a real thing.

BUSY DAYS WITH KALEM

These are busy days with the Kalem Moving Picture company. Under the direction of Mr. James E. Horne the great production, "The Strangler's Cord," has been completed and will be on the screens throughout the country within a month. Mr. Horne is also arranging to produce a new four-reel feature in the nature of a comedy-drama in which Miss Tannahill, the famous Broadway, New York, star, will be featured.

Mr. Horne is also working on a new production which is certain to prove a great sensation, "The Disappearing Necklace." Mr. McGowan is completing his work on "The Hazards of Helen."

CASE POSTPONED

There appeared before Judge Whomes this morning at 10 o'clock H. V. Gentry, an excavating contractor of Los Angeles, and John Kelly, an engine driver in his employment, to answer to a charge of violating a city ordinance by driving through the streets of Glendale a traction engine and trailer of weight above that permitted.

Gentry and Kelly preferred the request to the court that they be granted time in which to plead. The court admitted the request and granted them until Friday morning at ten o'clock to prepare their pleas. The two men are subject to fine if found guilty.

MEETING OF 500 CLUB

What is expected to be an interesting and pleasant entertainment will be given this afternoon at two o'clock at the home of Mrs. Fred L. Miller, 1424 Milford street. Mrs. Miller will entertain the Five Hundred club.

HONOR MISS GALEY

The Christian Endeavor society of the First Congregational church held a social and business meeting at the home of Mr. W. E. Welz, 612 Lomita avenue, Tuesday evening. After the business session a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served. A happy feature of the evening was the presentation to the retiring president, Miss Mabel Galey, of a picture of the Christ. This was in appreciation of the loyalty of Miss Galey and her faithfulness in the work of the society. Mrs. E. H. Willisford made the presentation speech in her own clever and charming way.

WHAT A LEMON

CITIZEN MAKES OBJECTIONS TO MERCHANTS' LICENSE ORDINANCE

For many weary weeks the Merchants' association and the city council labored with the problem of devising an equitable license ordinance and after all this labor brought forth a monstrosity. It is a genuine democratic tariff—one for revenue only—and with absolutely no protection to the merchants. Well may Mr. McGee, the dry goods man, laugh in his sleeve, for he consistently opposed the project all along.

The present ordinance imposes a tax upon every merchant in the city and gives him no benefit in return. Meantime, wagons owned by Los Angeles men, with Los Angeles drivers, crowd our streets selling butter, eggs, relishes, bread and scores of other articles handled by our retail stores. I understand our city attorney says no license ordinance can be passed that discriminates against a non-resident. If we have such a freak law in this state, the sooner it is repealed the better. I know that in Eastern states every city has its license ordinance, charging peddlers a day rate large enough to protect home merchants. All the merchants ask is that a license heavy enough to be prohibitive be placed on peddlers working from door to door. Such a license need not discriminate against non-residents, but a judicial officer always has the privilege of "staying" a fine, and this method could be used to protect the worthy Glendale peddler.

The way the merchants view the matter is this: They own property here on which they pay taxes. They pay heavily for paved streets, light, water, etc., and the fellows from other cities freely use all these things to compete with the home merchant. If they did it in a store-room it would not be so bad, but they go from door to door and the housewife buys from them because it is convenient. They sell no cheaper than the home merchant, but they take the goods to the very door. In many cases they sell much higher, as for instance, smoked shoulders at twenty cents a pound.

Such a license fee would breed no monopoly in any line of goods, for competition among the merchants is too keen for that. It would simply preserve to home merchants the trade that is justly theirs.

Pasadena, Burbank and near-by cities have such ordinances to protect home merchants, so why not we? Now, just one instance to emphasize my view. A big bread concern of Los Angeles sends retail wagons all over Glendale, driven by Los Angeles men, who sell bread (and very good bread it is) at higher prices than the home merchants sell bread equally as good. This manufacturer of bread pays no taxes in Glendale nor do any of his drivers. They use our streets and take from us the trade we ought to have. Is it just?

AT HIGH SCHOOL

PEACE DAY IS CELEBRATED—TENNIS TEAM MAKES GOOD RECORD

Glendale Union high school fittingly commemorated Peace Day on May 18 by having the students of that institution render an appropriate program. Principal George U. Moyse presided. The first number on the program was a selection by the school orchestra, "Orchestral International." This was followed by speeches by Howard Stickney and Miss Carol Willisford. Mr. Stickney gave the history of The Hague tribunal and the peace movement throughout the world, while Miss Willisford concluded by telling what peace in the United States means at the present time. Both speeches were interesting and educational.

Miss Ethel West gave a reading entitled "The Man in the Shadow," which was greatly appreciated. The program was concluded by a selection by the orchestra.

Fifteen members of A. L. Ferguson's class in physics of the high school went over to Los Angeles on Tuesday afternoon to acquaint themselves with the mechanical workings of the Ford automobile. They visited the assembly plant of the local agency and saw all of the phases of the work done after the car reaches the coast.

The cars arrive here in a more "stripped" condition than a racer; in fact, the engine and rear axle are the only two parts which are intelligible to the observer. This condition lasts only thirty-five minutes, however, for these principal elements are placed on a belt and equipped with everything from spark plug to tail light in the above mentioned time, and by the way—they ride off the belt by their own locomotion.

The trip was very interesting to all the pupils and Ford enthusiasts and one of the group remarked that he learned that a lot more things were in a Ford than he had ever imagined.

A stenotype demonstration was given at the high school Tuesday afternoon. It proved quite interesting. The operator succeeded in writing 637 words on his machine, which proves beyond a doubt that the stenotype will replace shorthand writers.

The senior class of the high school will present as their class play this year an amateur version of the story, "Daddy Longlegs." Practices are under way directed by Miss Abbie C. Terry.

Although not up to the standard of some of the other Glendale teams, the racquet wielders this year were an improvement over last year's. Next year we are looking for better results than ever, as over half of the team were under-class men who received valuable experience from this year's playing. All of these players are bound to improve.

The seniors won inter-class mostly by large scores. The "Sophs" were second and the juniors third.

Before inter-class was over school tennis started. Preeman played first singles, "Bill" Balthis and West alternated at second and third, while Fishel played fourth. Balthis and West proved the best double team and so played first winning time and time again from their older and more experienced opponents. Preeman and Fishel played second doubles, Hasty Bidwell and Heacock both substituting at different times, and won matches. Results were:

Harvard 11—Glendale 6.
Glendale 9—South Pasadena 8.
Glendale 17—Redondo 0.
Harvard 17—Glendale 0.
South Pasadena 11—Glendale 6.
Glendale 17—Compton 0.
Glendale 9—Polytechnic 8.

JOHNSTON FUNERAL

The remains of William M. Johnston, who passed away in Chicago, arrived this morning.

Mr. Johnston leaves a widow and son, Arthur W. Johnston, and brother-in-law, Henry Johnston of 335 Everett street, this city. Funeral services will be held at Forest Lawn cemetery tomorrow, Thursday, at 3 p. m., and will be conducted by the Masons, of which Mr. Johnston was a lifelong member, being a 32 degree Mason.

POINSETTIA CONFECTIONERY UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

G. W. Ludwick and L. P. Withrow sold the Poinsettia confectionery on Monday evening to E. Northway of Los Angeles. B. F. Hahn and wife, also of Los Angeles, have moved to Glendale and took over the management of the business on Tuesday morning.

MASS MEETING

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE CALLS PEOPLE TO CONSIDER CITY GOVERNMENT

Complying with the suggestion made at the Chamber of Commerce banquet last Saturday evening, a mass meeting of the citizens of Glendale will be held next Tuesday evening, May 25, in the high school auditorium, under the direction of the Chamber of Commerce.

At this mass meeting will be discussed the advantages and disadvantages of a fifth class city over a sixth class city. The question of a special charter will likely be taken up for consideration.

This mass meeting is to be for an educational purpose and it is hoped that all voters who are not now familiar with the forms of government of fifth and sixth class cities will come prepared to ask questions.

TROPICO

Tuesday, May 25, promises to be a most notable day in missionary circles for upon that date there will be an all-day meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary societies of this district in the First Methodist Episcopal church of Tropico, when all of the missionary societies of this district, which includes Pasadena, Glendale, Burbank and Tropico, will be entertained. Over seventy-five delegates are expected to be present. The Ladies' Aid of the local Methodist church will furnish the luncheon. Mrs. Eustace Benton Moore is chairman of the decorating committee. Each society will furnish a number on the interesting program. Mrs. E. B. Moore will represent the Tropico Home Missionary society by rendering a solo.

Dr. Samuel A. Pollock of West Park avenue and James L. Fishback of Los Angeles, formerly of Tropico, are enjoying a camping and hunting trip in the Little Tejunga canyon.

Many are the patrons and friends of Mrs. Martha McClure who will learn with many regrets that this capable and efficient instructor, who has so satisfactorily occupied the position of principal of the Tropico schools for the past eight years, has resigned, having accepted a position in the Los Angeles city schools. The position which Mrs. McClure has accepted was proffered her six months ago, but at the earnest solicitation of the school board and deeming it inadvisable to resign during the school term, Mrs. McClure decided to remain until the completion of this present term. During the regime of this capable woman as principal the Tropico schools have attained a standard that is second to none in the county. Mrs. McClure's legions of friends, while expressing their regrets, are also congratulating her that her superior qualifications are recognized in a larger and more lucrative field.

Mrs. Hattie Boring of 211 Blanche avenue will entertain the choir of the First Methodist Episcopal church at her home Thursday evening.

THE BIG PARADE

Those who propose to enter floats, etc., in the forthcoming parade in the Festival of Fruits and Flowers Saturday, May 29, should immediately register their intention with Clem Moore at 1010 West Broadway. The classifications will include floats, decorated automobiles and other classifications to be announced on Friday.

Prizes will be offered for the best exhibits. There is no better way to make the occasion a success than to have a creditable parade. Thousands will witness this part of the program and carry away lasting impressions of the public spirit and enterprise of Glendale citizens.

It is expected that banks and business organizations and numerous individuals will unite to make the parade a notable and artistic success.

J. W. Usilton, chairman of the parade committee, is working hard to bring about a united action on the part of the merchants and others that will result in one of the best parades that has ever taken place in Glendale.

C. E. RECEPTION

Under the leadership of Mr. E. D. Stafford, an interesting ceremony was gone through Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the C. E. society of the Presbyterian church. There was a large attendance, which viewed with pleasure the reception into membership of a large number of applicants. The rest of the evening was spent in profitable study.

OPEN AND ABOVE BOARD METHODS

No public undertaking of value, no public work of significance, no public business of any sort, has ever been accomplished without organization. It is necessary to appoint committees to attend to detail, to consider aspects carefully, and to work out plans for the proper accomplishment of whatever has been suggested for the public good. At the same time, it is equally necessary to guard against any monopoly of the right of pronouncing on the business intrusted to these committees and also against the old tricks by which committees manage to kill worthy propositions by delay, by half-hearted reports or by failure to report at all.

Everything should be brought out into the open. Open methods are the salvation of business and tend to cultivate principles of uprightness and truth in a community. There is always an under current of dissatisfaction in any community where underground and dishonest methods prevail in public business.

It is never profitable for a community when a clique of two or three get together and seek to frame up a program for any public body. Inevitably such methods are abundantly apparent and breed dissatisfaction of the most dangerous order. They also cause a general loosening of the bands of morality and tend to foster the idea which is so harmful to a community that it is right to get what you desire by any method—if you only succeed. As the old couplet says about treason:

"Treason is ne'er successful for this reason—
When 'tis successful 'tis no longer treason."

In the end, however, a community gets nothing more than what it works for. If it works for selfish ends and forgets the general good in the individual and monetary profit, it will be found at last poor and wretched and blind and naked—bankrupt in that thing a community should have and particularly bankrupt in that for which the underhand city politician is always working—money.

We believe in regular business methods; we believe in organization; in committees and in efficient committee work which when rightly managed saves so much public time and money. Not for a moment, however, do we hesitate to condemn the underhand methods that work in the dark and when their incubating period is over bring forth to the light some monster of greed and graft.

Open methods are best. Come forth to the light! No one loves the dark except his deeds be evil. Let the blessed sunlight of publicity pierce and pervade all that pertains to the city and Glendale will flourish even as its own orange and lemon groves flourish in the blessed light of God.

SOLIDARITY OF HUMANITY

In the frozen North, where the sub-arctic city of Nome looks out over the Bering sea toward Northeastern Siberia, there used to be an unwritten law that any miner or prospector going into town from his claim should leave everything at hand in his cabin for the use of any wanderer in case of a blizzard; or in case any individual coming from a long tramp should find the need of rest or food.

In the various cupboards would be found necessary food—flour, beans, baking soda, coffee, sugar and whatever else might be needed for the immediate production of a simple meal. So far did northern hospitality and kindness go that the very fire was left all ready to be lighted. In many cases when caught in one of the devastating blizzards that sweep the frozen fields of Alaska in winter a miner on the "mush" might be caught in the blinding swirl of driving frost and snow and after days of exhaustion might stagger into such a cabin and snatch himself from the jaws of death when only a few minutes might divide him from the Valley of the Shadow.

It is in such climates and face to face with such great dangers as those of the North that humanity most truly feels that it is one. There all nationality vanishes away and men are fellow men. The latch is always open and food and shelter always ready for the man in distress.

It seems to be so in the great war in Europe. There where the great deeps of humanity have been broken up there seems to be a general coming together of the human race in spirit at least. Wars are without doubt a great evil, but even out of them may come great good.

As in the Crusades, while the nations of Europe were sending their hundreds of thousands to die on the burning sands of Syria, those who survived came back with wider ideas and with new lessons that were for the benefit of humanity. Just as the capture of Constantinople by the Turks in 1453, which at first was lamented all over Christendom as a great calamity, became a great blessing by reason of the diffusion of Greek learning and culture which it brought to Europe, so the present war is likely to bring the nations to understand each other better and to work for the unity and happiness of the race at large.

Speaking at the banquet of the Chamber of Commerce last Saturday night, the Rev. Bede A. Johnson of the First Methodist Episcopal church told his audience that in Germany now, even while the marshaled arrays of the nations were slaughtering each other on the fields of Belgium and of Galicia, the churches in Germany were crowded with congregations thrilled to the core with the sense of the impending future that is being worked out on the fields of battle. Those congregations are praying for those whom they still, however, erroneously call their "enemies."

Truly the human race is one and indivisible. God made of one blood all nations that dwell on the face of the earth. Greed, avarice, cruelty, savagery, misunderstanding may keep them apart for a long time to come, but slowly and surely is being worked out the great problem which will yet be solved when there shall be but "one land, one faith, one law; its ruler God, its practice righteousness, and its life peace."

DEMOCRACY ON TRIAL

It is often said that democracy is merely on trial; or at least, that the democracy of the United States is still on trial. It is true that the democracies of the world as they exist at present are more or less new; but the United States at least gives some signs of permanency. Yet it might be well to ponder what Lord Cromer, the former able governor of Egypt, says on this topic.

Recently Prof. Ridgeway entered a demurrer against the opinion that a universal reign of democracy in a somewhat extreme form must necessarily connote the inauguration of a universal reign of peace. Lord Cromer says that it is necessary to warn the world against indulging in dreams on this subject.

Undoubtedly the present trend of democracy is toward peace. If that trend were intelligently directed and a country like the United States pointed the way toward general disarmament or an international police system, while at the same time it should be capable of defending itself against foreign aggression, there might be some ground for hoping that democracy in some form might yet be the solution of the troubles of the human race. At present the farthest that even democracy's staunchest supporter will go to maintain that democracy is the form of government that suits the United States.

It remains to be seen whether or not the American democracy makes for peace. It is rather soon to predicate that of this form of government, while in the case of the French government we find aggressiveness in the First Republic leading up to the world-wide conquests of Napoleon; the Second Republic leading to the foolishly militaristic empire of Napoleon III, and the present Republic of France being engaged in one of the most savage wars of the ages.

Speaking of the accusation that underhand diplomacy or secret diplomacy has been at the root of much evil in Europe during the past fifty years, Lord Cromer says that he was behind the scenes in European diplomacy for a quarter of a century and that during all that time there was not a single diplomatic secret that could have been proclaimed from the housetops. At the same time, he asserts that had it not been for that secret diplomacy the world would have long ere now been involved in a general war.

In particular he asserts that at the time when Lord Lyons, the British diplomatist, was working to prevent a break between Great Britain and the United States, a consummation he fortunately accomplished, if the irresponsible opinion of both countries had had greater material facilities for mutual attack and defense, it would have been scarcely possible to avoid war.

As far as the present war is concerned, Lord Cromer says that it is a triumph of democracy. Great Britain is a real democracy, he maintains, and in deference to the democratic spirit of the nation put off declaring itself to the last moment. It is conceivable, he says, that the present war might have been avoided had the British government declared its intention to resist German aggression at an early stage of the negotiations; but had it done so, the very persons who are now condemning it for not having done so, would have equally condemned it on the plea that diplomatic action had tended to precipitate war.

From all that has been said, we gather that democracy is still on trial and that is not to be wondered at, seeing that after the evolution of so many ages humanity itself is still on trial.

FROM OTHER POINTS OF VIEW

Now is the time to put into practice the maxims that appeared so rational and profitable when first the City Beautiful idea came out of the ether to Glendale. Like most new ideas, it caught on at first and there was a good deal of gratuitous advertising of enterprising individuals in connection with it, but after the novelty had worn away, it was found rather a labor and a bore to go on with the work. Still it is a good work and should not be permitted to die.

Look at the corner lots at some points on Broadway. They are overgrown with grass and will present at the coming Fiesta of Fruits and Flowers rather an incongruous contrast to the decorations. Can our citizens not get busy and have their lots cleaned, as so many of them promised to do? Examples are not lacking of citizens who have nobly fulfilled their duties in this respect. Let others follow their example and the desert places may yet blossom like the rose.

MEN'S CLUB TO MEET

The Men's club of St. Mark's Episcopal church will meet tonight in the crypt under the presidency of Mr. W. Worley. Important matters of church welfare will be under discussion.

TO BUILD STORES

It is credibly reported that a contract was let Tuesday for the erection of four new brick stores at the northwest corner of Fifth street and Brand boulevard. The work, it is said, will be started next week. No permit, however, has yet been issued for this work.

Terre Haute must be slow. It did not remove its mayor until several days after government officers had moved him to another state and locked him in.

There are nearly 4000 charity, civic and religious organizations in New York City. Great waste of effort.

METHODIST MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The Women's Missionary society of the First M. E. church had a most enjoyable, as well as profitable, meeting on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. J. L. Anderson, 431 East Colorado boulevard. To be an outsider and watch the autos line up gave one a decided impression of a social reception, so well did the members of the church turn out. Inside was an interested hum. A few ladies, arriving early, retired for prayers with the evangelistic secretary.

The meeting was then officially opened by the president, Mrs. Spickerman. Was our program interesting? Well, ask any lady present and you wil' hear, immensely. Miss Collins reviewed our study book in a logical, dignified manner, and the things she told us were certainly eye-openers. Mrs. Ed Lee took us with her on a trip to Alaska. It was a real comfortable trip, no hunting up luggage, no sea-sickness and no fear of war condition. We just sailed along with such a supply of Alaska postals—brim-full of interest. Pictures of green mountains, snow white fields, towns nestled between the hills and the ocean. Surely they were nestled between the mountains and the waters edge—nearly tumbling in. I can recommend such a trip to anyone dreading fatigueing travel.

Mrs. Laichinger told of the Hilda Seward school near Nome. You realized the vastness of those lonely snow covered stretches, of the small villages nestled there so far from human hands in the dark winter time. The utter aloneness one must feel who did know and realize that God his Father is lovingly everywhere. That our Father's stars in the heavens so blue shine upon Alaska's vast loneliness as and in as kindly a way as upon the warm beauty lands of California. How we do need our Father to bridge the distances.

Mrs. Taylor followed with such a live description of the Jessie Lee school or home at Alusian Islands. Here we had in a way a more favored locality. Of course as an island isolated—but with a milder climate and a much better means of sustaining life. The boys and girls at this school surely do learn to be useful people—learn to help and really to live, instead of exist. They are waifs picked up all over Alaska. I should say were waifs, now they are home people and how they do love their homes. They have so much put into their lives that they surely must think now life is worth living in Alaska. Their appreciation is so great that when it was thought the school must close for lack of funds they refused to hear to it, but hustled out among themselves to find a way to bridge over the bad times until help came.

This closed the program and with our spirits raised high our hostess decided our bodies needed replenishing ere soul and body parted. She quickly brought such cool, refreshing lemonade that we almost thought there must be cold Alaska waters near by. Then such delicious cake that said with a loud voice "more." She always seemed to hear that inner voice, for suddenly she would appear before you with another plateful. Now with both of our natures satisfied, we began to think of home ones to be fed and reluctantly we left on our homeward way.

We wish to announce that at the Methodist church on Central avenue in Tropico on Tuesday, the 25th, will be held the district convention of the Home Missionary society. I am sure there are many outsiders, as well as members, who will wish to take advantage of this convention.

MASONS, NOTICE!

NORTH GLENDALE

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Casa Verdugo M. E. church held their monthly meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Soper, 1305 North Maryland. There was a regular business session, after which the ladies enjoyed listening to the talks given by Dr. Draper and Miss Phelps, both of whom are missionaries recently returned from Japan. They spoke of the work in that country as well as of the customs of the people and brought a message which was helpful to all. The dainty refreshments that were served were suggestive of Japan.

Mrs. M. N. Barnett, a well-known former resident of Glendale, who is at present residing with her brother at Newhall, was in North Glendale recently calling upon several friends while here.

Mr. A. G. Williams of 1690 Stocker street left last week for San Francisco, where he is in business, after several weeks' stay with his family.

Mr. W. H. Spinks of West Twenty-ninth street, Los Angeles, has secured the contract for painting Mr. Bert J. Lyons' house at 1617 Ruth street.

Miss Lucille Pittman of 1001 North Pacific avenue will entertain as her dinner guest this evening Miss Harriett Bayard of Tropico.

Mrs. Clara Robinson of the Collins Millinery company of Los Angeles is having her summer vacation and is spending her time at her home, 1528 Lorraine.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Wilbur of Rancho La Solano, San Gabriel, motored to North Glendale Tuesday and called upon several friends while here, enjoying dinner in the evening with their daughter and family, Mrs. George H. Marsh of 1645 Ruth street.

Mrs. Alvin Rosson of Everett street was the guest for the day of Mrs. I. C. Rice of 1632 Ruth street on Tuesday.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The Woman's Missionary society of the First Congregational church will meet at the church tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. The topic will be "Some Things Foreign Missions Have Done." Mrs. Alvord will be the leader.

ALL-DAY MISSIONARY MEETING

The Woman's Missionary society of the Presbyterian church held an all-day meeting Tuesday, May 18th, which was both enjoyable and profitable. The meeting began with a song service of hearty gospel music. Then followed a book review of "Child in the Midst," which is a vivid picture of child life in many lands and contains fine suggestions for American mothers as well.

Mrs. Meeker and Miss Scott gave the opening chapters in a most interesting way with many practical ideas for children and mothers.

Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Brooks led in prayers of thanksgiving for our privileges in having a part in God's work, and for blessings in the home and foreign workers. The president explained the objects for home giving for our society for this year.

The ladies then adjourned to the Sunday school room, where the hospitality committee, with Mrs. McCoy as leading hostess, entertained with a bounteous luncheon. The pastor, Rev. Edmonds, and the elders of the church were honored guests of the day. The president, Mrs. Dan Campbell, had composed a poem of welcome, setting forth the purposes and hopes of the ladies' society, which she read and was heartily applauded. Mr. Harrison, one of the elders, responded with a very kindly speech.

This social hour together makes the bond of sympathy and union stronger between the men and women in their common interests of God's kingdom.

The afternoon session began at 2 o'clock, with a devotional hour led by the pastor. His subject was "The Habit of Prayer" and he gave many examples, such as David and Daniel and Christ, from the scriptures, who prayed so earnestly and often, and modern men like Andrew Jackson, and Chinese Gordon, who were so strong in their prayer life. "Prayer sweetens life; there is no time or desire for gossip about those for whom we pray." "How much time do we spend in secret prayer?"

Mrs. Ayers and Mrs. Harrison led in prayer for more consecration in the work and success in every department of the church work.

Mrs. Thomas, foreign corresponding secretary of Los Angeles Presbyterial, was introduced and gave an excellent address on Siam and Laos. She is a woman of many gifts, spiritual and intellectual, and was listened to with the closest attention. Her description of the Laos people and their consistent Christian life after their conversion from Budhism and demon worship was inspiring.

Mrs. Lilly and Miss Harris sang a duet, the music of which was composed by the latter. Miss Harris gave an interesting and practical map talk on Porto Rico, which closed the program for the day.

Four new members were received: Mrs. Roy D. King, Mrs. T. D. Ogg, Mrs. H. J. Lawrence and Mrs. C. C. Widney.

ANGELS AT THE FAIR

SAN DIEGO, May 19.—Los Angeles county day, May 22, is expected to bring to the San Diego exposition the biggest crowd in attendance at the county celebrations up to the present. By boat and train and motor, Los Angeles county, which by reason of the heavy investment in the southern counties display is especially interested in the exposition, will pour its thousands into San Diego for a special day to the success of which Los Angeles is contributing.

The morning parade on entering the grounds will be met by a battalion of United States marines and probably several troops of United States cavalry. The Angelenos are bringing a band of fifty pieces and a troupe of the famous "Kilties" with drums and bagpipes. The exposition's Spanish singers and the Hawaiians will furnish additional musical features.

As the parade swings into the Plaza de Panama it will be met by the carnival parade of the San Diego Ad club, which has picked this same day for its annual "doings." The club has announced only that the masques will be of an advertising nature, but it is assumed that the members will represent the characters made famous by various national advertisers. The big events of the advertising men will materialize in the night carnival on the Isthmus, in which all the concessionaries will join for the costume events. Every Saturday night is marked by frolics on the Isthmus, but with these two special events planned next Saturday should be by far the best of the month.

From 9:15 until noon there will be military events at the Marine barracks. At 4 p. m. comes the recital on the great outdoor organ, and immediately after this the serenade drama by the full troupe of Spanish troubadours. During the rest of the day they perform in duos and trios in the various gardens of the exposition. Band concerts are scheduled for practically every minute of the day and evening.

PARKER'S PARAGRAPHICAL OUTPUT

The state of Kansas (like some individuals) is never more happy than when on the frontage line with name in all the papers. Just now her cry is for harvest hands, nearly equal in number to her population, to help them harvest this year's wheat crop, which is said to be bigger and better than ever. This from the state that the liquor barons assert is "ruined by prohibition."

Some "hold-ups" are legitimate and desirable, yea necessary, and one such was held at the Masonic temple last Saturday night, where members of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce met to consult how best to "hold up" Glendale for all the good things present and possible that belongs to her. Props and stays are features in hold-ups for booming purposes, and the earnest talks and ready-for-action spirit manifested by these young men was declaratory that Glendale was in the hands of a healthy hold-up.

Unless the governor of Georgia commutes his sentence to imprisonment for life, a young man named Leo Frank, sentenced to be hanged for a crime that there are strong reasons for believing he did not commit, will be executed. To take a life, even when the law says so, is a terrible thing, but to find out later on that the party executed was innocent is more terrible. If in prison he can be vindicated and the governor is urged to save the life of this man.

Rev. J. D. Higgins of Pasadena made the opening speech at the First Methodist church last Sunday morning and though 98 years of age, his voice was firm and tone vigorous enough to be heard by all, so that you could thrust in a punctuating "amen" without guessing at it. These strong-lunged brethren of former years are fast passing away, but it is refreshing to "hear" one these "low-voiced" days.

A paragraph from Tropico last week stated that "Mr. Parker's poem, 'Mother,' was beautifully read by Mrs. E. B. Moore and well received by pastor and people at their Mother Day services at the First M. E. church." This poem was used in several churches in the East, and being published in the California Christian Advocate, in its issue of May 6th, it was before all the subscribers to that paper in the three coast states.

There is nothing at present giving the professional politician as much trouble as the action of the California legislature in entirely eliminating politics as a factor in selecting officials for state places. It went through the legislature with a whirl and if it goes to "referendum," the people will be stronger for it than was the legislature. The party mark obtains yet in national affairs, where it only needs a few more Barnes-Roosevelt trials to make it a fast decaying quantity.

Great dissatisfaction among the people over the selecting of judges has led to great anxiety among lawyers as to how best allay this feeling among the people and yet hold tight grip on the courts. Many lawyers favor the appointive method and that system the people are most opposed to, as you get men in who are utterly unworthy, and by present methods you can never get them out. In the discussion of this question credit has been given to the California method of non-partisan election, "under which the characters of the men have been greatly improved."

Mr. and Mrs. Wilton, friends from Chicago, came 3000 miles to see California and the fairs, and incidentally "Uncle Sam," though it cost them their dinners after doing Mt. Lowe, to do it. They came out the picturesque line as twilight was gathering, which only enhanced its beauty, and the trip out was a fitting climax—nothing seen more beautiful than Glendale. Mrs. Wilton would make an ideal California promoter, especially when flowers were under discussion. "Beautiful, lovely, gorgeous, glorious," were terms frequently used.

What is meant by the "sister states" did you ask? Well, it may have some other meaning, but this will do for this paragraph. A number of states whose names suggest the feminine gender, forming a portion of the American Union and living in peace and harmony—Mary Land, Miss Ouri, Minnie Sota, Ida Ho, Cali Fornia, Miss Issippi, Louise Anna—all suggest sisterhood, and yet we all have heard—"What's the matter with Maine? She's all right."

When a hold-up occurs on the cars—or Broadway—the feminine voice is heard suggestive of great reserve vocal powers, "police" or "help" being the English of it all. How different the actions under slightly different circumstances. On half a block adjoining two corners on Broadway on Saturday, the 15th, between the hours of 9 a. m. and midnight, 1000 more or less women and girls were "held up" without a call for the police. They really seemed to enjoy it.

Some forty employees, men and women, have been working for the county for periods of various durations, but all mainly in subordinate places and small salaries. County Superintendent of Charities Martin made the discovery that all these are foreigners and a state law declares that no foreigner shall be employed in any state, county or city work. In some states filing of a declaration to become a citizen (it takes time) lets them work, and it should be so here.

PAN-AMERICAN FINANCIAL CONFERENCE MAY ADOPT DOLLAR AS STANDARD OF VALUE

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19.—Mr. John Clausen has been selected as the Pacific coast representative at the Pan-American financial conference to be held at Washington, D. C., May 24 to 29.

Mr. Clausen is manager of the foreign department for the Crocker National bank and an active member of the foreign trade department of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, which organization has appointed him as its representative at the conference.

The proposed conference is of the highest importance to the Americas, both North and South, and of special importance to the Pacific coast. Heretofore all our financial arrangements with the Latin American countries have been made through Germany, England, France and Holland, as under our banking laws no American bank might establish a branch in foreign countries. If an American wants to buy and sell, or interchange products with that country, he must carry on his transactions by means of exchanges, drafts, etc.

Americans have been buying a great deal from the Latin Americans and selling but little, paying for their purchases by drafts on London, where we maintain our credit by our exports of cotton, grain, etc. Since the inception of the war these exports have been largely curtailed and all the Americas have had impressed upon them the absolute fact that some system of international credit is an urgent necessity. This will be the principal object of the conference. This may compel the abolishment of the pound Sterling as the standard of value in favor of the American dollar in the hope of arranging some stable unit of value.

The conference will probably consider subjects other than those of finance, especially foreign trade. Locally the Pacific coast desires a uniform standard of consular invoices and so far as possible uniform customs regulations. At present there are twenty-one forms for consular invoices.

Another subject which the local chamber desires taken up is that of the rate of import duties in the hope of securing a much lower rate than that now in effect. There are countries in Latin America where a can of American corn, such as we buy in any grocery for ten cents, is sold for $1.10. Other American products have import duties in like proportion which it is hoped to lower.

It is hoped that the conference will perfect some plan covering these subjects and this plan will be reported to all governments represented.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo selected Mr. Clausen as the Pacific coast representative at the conference and he leaves for Washington today.

HAWAIIANS RIDE SURF

SAN DIEGO, May 19.—The Hawaiians who have their palm, banana and pineapple filled village on the Isthmus of the San Diego exposition wearied the other day of village life. Early in the morning all the men decamped quietly and took an automobile to La Jolla, a beach suburb north of San Diego, carrying with them long wooden structures which mystified the natives until they were unloaded at the water's edge and revealed as the surf-riding boats of Hawaii. In ten minutes the suburb's total resident and floating population was on the sand. By noon the Hawaiians were back at the exposition singing placidly the love songs of the island.
